Bountiful City Government Overview

Bountiful City was incorporated in 1892 and under Utah law is city of the third class. Bountiful City has adopted a Council/Manager form of government, also sometimes referred to as “City Manager by Ordinance.” In this form of government, the legislative body is made up of elected officials and the Council appoints a City Manager to act as the Chief Administrative Officer of the City. The primary responsibility of the City Manager is to oversee all daily operations of the City.

The Council/Manager form of government is the most common form of city government in the United States. The City Council, made up of six individuals, functions as the City’s legislative body adopting laws and policies as allowed by federal and state law. The Mayor serves as the head of the Council. The Bountiful City Council is also designated as the Board of Directors of the Redevelopment Agency of Bountiful and has the powers and duties as are specified in the Utah Neighborhood Development Act (See Bountiful City Code Title 9). The City Manager is a career administrator who serves as chief administrative officer of the organization. This role includes hiring and supervision of all staff, preparation of the annual budget, and acting as the City Council’s primary advisor. Gary Hill was appointed as Bountiful City Manager in December 2012.

Additional information on the form of government and the roles of the Mayor, Council, and City Manager can be found in the Bountiful City Code, Title 2 – Administration and City Government (www.bountifulutah.gov → Government → Executive and Legal → Download City Code, and in Section 10-36-301 to 303 of the Utah Code).

The Mayor and City Council are elected at-large by the voters of Bountiful City for a term of four years. Three Council positions will be filled in this election. The City’s elected positions are designed so three Council members are elected in one election, and the Mayor and the two other Council members are elected two years later, thus maintaining some experience and continuity on the Council regardless of election outcome in any given year.

City Council meetings are held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, often with a work session starting at 6:00 p.m. and the regular session starting at 7:00 p.m. (the date and time of Council Meetings are subject to change). All meetings are held in compliance with the provisions of the Utah Open and Public Meetings Act.

Bountiful City History

On the 27th day of September, 1847, Perrigrine Sessions, with his family, moved about nine miles north of the newly established Mormon settlement of Salt Lake City and camped. He had traveled beyond the Hot Springs to find feed for his flocks and herds. Here he constructed a dugout with skins for a roof and wintered, he and his family being the sole occupants of the place until the spring of 1848. This dugout was located at approximately 250 North and 280 West. He was thus the founder of Utah's second settlement and the first white man to make a home in what we now know as Davis County.

Sessions was not left long in seclusion, for in the spring and summer newcomers arrived in droves and by the end of the year some three score heads of families were definitely located in this beautiful spot. These settlers were all Mormons and most of them claimed English descent. A roster clearly bears out this thought: Call, Barlow, Hatch, Moss, Tolman, Holbrook, Stoker, Pace, to name a few, indicates their origin.

Though rudely taught themselves, they believed in education, for in the fall of 1848, Anson Call and Joseph Holbrook built a house of bulrushes and clay on the banks of the Jordan River and their children were given the rudiments of the three r's (reading, writing and arithmetic) by the latter's wife, Hannah. In November, 1849, at a ward meeting the people voted to erect a schoolhouse and John C.L. Smith was hired to teach at $30.00 per month. Thus was also established the second school in Utah.

The place was first known as Session's Settlement, but with the ecclesiastical designation of North Canyon Ward, both titles being employed rather indiscriminately until 1855, when it was officially named Bountiful. A more fitting appellation could not have been chosen for what was even then called the garden spot of Utah.

The townsite had been laid out by Jesse W. Fox and the people wished to have it enclosed as a precaution against hostile Indians. They voted in 1855 to build a wall entirely around it. This was done and the result was an earthwork of mud and straw some three miles in length, eight feet high on the outside and four feet thick at the top, rather an imposing undertaking for those times. Assessments were made according to ability to pay, one man being assessed $1,100.00. The wall when constructed encompassed generally that area commonly bounded by 4th North, 2nd West, 5th South and 4th East.

Settlers continued to pour in from the eastern states and from England. They came with ox teams, with handcarts and a foot and they were welcomed with that hearty spirit of brotherhood that only the pioneer knows how to display. Increased population demanded larger places of worship, so the foundation of the Bountiful Tabernacle was laid in 1857, the work proceeding until 1863, when the edifice was dedicated by President Brigham Young. Most of the timber came out of Meeting House Hollow in Holbrook Canyon and the adobes were made from clay in the "dobe yard down on the bottoms." At the time of its construction, this Tabernacle was the finest in the Church. No other building in Utah has finer acoustic properties than this imposing old monument to pioneer enterprise.

The sixties, the seventies and the eighties saw the young community continue to grow. Secular and religious interests were inextricably mixed; the church increased in numbers, the schools flourished and multiplied. Instead of the original one ward, there were now four; Centerville and East, West and South Bountiful. School districts were laid out along the same broad lines, the parents paying personally for the tuition of their children. East Bountiful came to be known as Bountiful; and West and South Bountiful had the Post Office designation of Woods Cross, so named, it is reported, because Daniel Wood, enraged because the railroad had diagonally crossed his farm, had exclaimed, "Yes, and pretty damned cross too!"

By 1890, the citizens of East Bountiful determined that they needed something stronger than precinct government to take care of their increasing population. They petitioned the Territorial Legislature and were granted a charter to organize a city corporation. This was in 1892 and Joseph L. Holbrook was elected for the first Mayor with the following as Councilmen: Edwin Pace, Thomas Briggs, Stearns Hatch, J.L. Fackrell and Arthur Riley, with Joseph T. Mabey as City Marshall, R.E. Egan as City Recorder and Jed Stringham as Treasurer.

During the many years since it was organized, the City has met every obligation imposed upon it. Its officials have been wide awake and forward looking; they have been honest and painstaking and there has never been a hint of graft or incompetence. It has been an honor to serve the people, and pay has been no consideration.

During that time elementary schools have been established and junior high schools and two high school have been built.

Streets have been cleared of weeds and debris; oiled surface have supplanted the mud, and sidewalks have been laid. A water system was begun in 1906 and it has increased incapacity until today most of the water of the mountain streams goes into city reservoirs, to say nothing of other rights acquired from owners of pumped wells and the use of water from Weber Basin Water Conservancy District.

In 1907 electric lights came to Bountiful through the efforts of its citizens. This system was purchased by the City, which now owns its own plant. The first real hard surface road in Utah was laid down between the town and the Salt Lake County line through the efforts of officials of Bountiful, who also were able to induce private property owners to permit the cut through the bluff at the Hot Springs. Other citizens of this flourishing community organized and carried out a campaign to acquire the Cemetery and beautify it. Now it is one of the most beautiful spots dedicated to the dead in the state.

Possibly no other place in Utah is growing so rapidly as this city set on the hills between the mountains and the sea. Other people have finally discovered that, for a dwelling place - an ideal spot in which to rear a family - it has few equals and is surpassed by none. The result has been homes by the hundreds in the last fifteen years, modern homes that please the eye and satisfy the desire for comfort. One is safe in prophesying that, shortly, family dwellings will be built to the topmost lake terrace, where contented inhabitants will gaze down upon the City of Bountiful and the shimmering salt sea as the setting sun gilds the sky and the mountains with gold and exclaim, "Here at last is paradise on earth!"
